From April 1998 to December 2002, 145 consecutive patients with unresectable stage I to III lung cancer underwent EB. The 2-year actuarial survival and local control rates were 35% and 44%, respectively. The dose of radiation \geq 50 Gy to the primary tumor correlated with a greater chance of survival ($P=0.0072$). There was no difference in survival in relation to the use of an endobronchial blocker ($P=0.7663$) or type of blocker ($P=0.9476$). The complications were hoarseness (25%), cough (17%), chest pain (16%), and hemoptysis (13%). The incidence of brachytherapy complications was reduced with increasing experience. KEYMACRO is a simple tool that does exactly what its name suggests. It allows you to create a macro key that opens programs or files whenever you press a predefined combination of keys. For instance, you could create a macro that opens "File" when you press the "Ctrl" key and "F". Furthermore, you can create and record up to 20 macros and assign them to hotkeys. While the former is an add-on that allows you to assign different commands to different hotkeys, the latter does precisely what it says. Just as KEYMACRO, ButtonMasher lets you record hotkeys by assigning predefined combinations to commands. We'll show you how to install both add-ons in the following paragraph. 1st AutoRun Pro is a Windows application designed to create autorun menus for your discs with no fuss.
